MINOT, Lawrence, an ancient English Poet, flourished in the 14th century.—His Poems, which had long lain undiscovered, in Manuscript, in the Cottonian Library, were found there by Mr. Tyrwhitt, and published t by Mr. Ritson, with the title of, Poems on Interesting Events, in the reign of king Edward III.; written in 1352: with a Preface, Dissertations, Notes, and a Glossary. 1794, 8vo. 6s. The versification of these Poems is uncommonly easy and harmonious, considering the period in which he lived. He has not the dull prolixity of many early Authors; but there is not in his Remains those pictures of ancient times and manners from which early writers derive their greatest value.

MONTESQUIEU, CHARLES DE SECONDAT, BARON OF, a very cele- e brated French Writer, was born near Bourdeaux, 1689; died 1755. He published,—Persian Letters. 1721. This Work was highly admired. The Letters are intended as a satire upon French manners, and treat of several subjects, which he fully investigates.—On the Causes of the Grandeur and Declension of the Romans. 1734, 8vo. In this he has rendered a common topic highly interesting, and contrived to present within a small compass, a great variety of objects.—Spirit of Laws. Lond. 1748, 2 vols. 8vo. Translated into English by Nugent, with an Index. 6th edit. 1793, 8vo. 10s. 6d. This Work contains numerous useful and ingenious observations, with many admirable maxims for the good of f Society. It was at one time highly esteemed throughout Europe, but has now lost much of its popularity. That part of the Work which related to the Constitution of England, has been translated, and published separately, by Baron Maseres. Lond. 1781, 8vo. 1s.—Miscellaneous Pieces. Translated from the new edition of his Works, in quarto. Paris, 1759, 8vo. 4s.—Temple of Guidus; a Poem. Lond. 1763, 4to. 1s. 6d. Translated a second time from the French. Lond. 1768, 8vo. 1s. 6d. MOREL, is the name of a family of eminent French Printers, in the 16th and 17th centuries.—The first, William, who died in 1564, was an w excellent Scholar, and employed his attention chiefly on Greek Authors, and his editions are much esteemed. He also wrote, Critical Commentaries on Cicero de Finibus. Paris, 1545, 4to. And compiled a Greek, Latin, and French Dictionary.—The next we meet with, Frederic, the elder, a native of Champagne, and King's Printer at Paris. He composed several Works, and died in 1583, leaving a son,—Frederic, the younger, who was the most celebrated of the family, and succeeded his father in 1581, as King's Printer, in the Hebrew, Greek, Latin, and French Tongues. He was well versed in these languages, and translated from the Greek a number of Authors, particularly the Fathers, with Annotations of x his own. He died in 1638, at the age of 78.—His brother, Claude, who was nominated King's Printer in 1602, also published valuable editions of several Greek Fathers; with learned Prefaces of his own composition. He died in 1626.—Charles, another son of Frederic, exercised the same business with credit, which he resigned, in 1639, to his brother,—Giles, who among other Works, printed an edition of Aristotle, Gr. Lat. 4 vols. fol. And the great Bibliotheca Patrum, in 17 volumes.

MUSA, Antonius, an ancient Physician at Rome, about 21 B. C. There is a Tract attributed to him entitled,—Libellus de Botanica. Bas. 1528, 1549; but upon doubtful authority.

MUSÆUS. Of this name there are two Poets. The first, who flour- u ished about a thousand years before the Christian æra, is celebrated by ancient writers as a Philosopher, Astronomer, and Poet. None of his Works, however, are now extant. The other Musæus, called the Grammarian, is supposed to have lived as late as the 4th century, and to have been the Author of a Greek Poem on the Loves of Hero and Leander, of which the following are the principal editions,—De Herone et Leandro, Gr. et Lat. Venice, printed by Aldus, without date, 4to. This is generally allowed to be the editio princeps of Musæus, and also the first Publication from the Aldine Press. These circumstances have rendered it a volume very interesting and valuable to the curious. Its date may probably be fixed within v the year 1494.—De Her. Gr. Florent. without date, but about 1495, 4to. This is printed in capital letters, and is considered to be the last Work that issued from the press of Franciscus de Alopa, a Printer whose taste and typographical elegance has always secured admiration.—De Her. cum Orphæi Argonauticis, ejusdem Hymni et Orph. de Lapidibus, Gr. et Lat. Ven. ap. Ald. 1517, 8vo.—De Her. Gr. Lat. Bas. ap. Froben. 1518, 8vo. This is a respectable edition, and the basis of several subsequent ones. —De Her. Gr. et Lat. Flor. ap. Junt. 1519, 8vo.—De Her. Gr. cum Paraphras. Lat. Guil. de Mara. Colin. 1526, 8vo.—De Her. à Joan. Vatello, Gr. et Lat. Par. 1538, 8vo.—De Her. ab Andr. Papio, Gr. et w Lat. Ant. 1575, 8vo. Annexed to Dionysius the Geographer.—De Her. Gr. et Lat. Par. 1578, 4to.—De Her. à Casp. Barthio, Gr. et Lat. Amberg. 1608, 8vo.—De Her. Gr. et Lat. Par. 1627, 8vo. Annexed to Theocritus and Hesiod.—De Her. à Dan. Paræo, Gr. et Lat. Franc. 1627, 4to.—De Her. Gr. et Lat. à Winterton inter Poet. Græc. Minor. Cant. 1633, 1652, 1661, 1671, 1677, 1684, 1700. Et Lond. 1712, 8vo.—De Her. cum Bione et Moscho, à Dav. Whitford, Gr. et Lat. Lond. 1655, 1659, 4to.—De Her. a Jac. Rondello, Gr. et Lat. Par. 1678, 8vo. —De Her. cum Not. Var. à Joan. Henr. Kromayero, Gr. et Lat. Hal. Magd. 1721, 8vo. This is a good edition. The text is taken from Ste- x phen's Poetæ Principes Græci, and the Latin Version is by Paul Voet.—De Her. Gr. et Lat. inter Poet. Græc. Minor. select. et emendat. Lond. 1728 et 1739, 8vo.—De Her. cum Scholiis Græcis, et Notis Matth. Rover, Gr. et Lat. Lugd. Bat. 1737, 8vo. This edition exhibits much critical skill and correct judgment, although the Editor (Rœver) was but 18 years of age when it was completed.—De Her. à Joan. Schrodero, Gr. et Lat. Leovard. 1742, 8vo. The best edition.—De Her. ab Ang. Mar. Bandinio, Gr. Lat. et Ital. Florent. 1775, 8vo.—De Her. ex edit. Dav. Whitfordi, Gr. Lat. à Carpzovio. Magdeb. 1775, 8vo. To this impression are subjoined various Readings and Emendations. Et Magd. 1777, 8vo.—De y Her. Gr. et Lat. cura Heinrichs. Han. 1793, 8vo.—De Her. Gr. et Ang. à Gilb. Wakefield. Lond. 1797, 8vo.—The English Translations of Musæus are entitled: Hero and Leander, by Christ. Marloe. Lond. 1598, 8vo. And again, with the first Book of Lucan. Lond. 1606, 4to. —The Divine Poem of Musæus, first of all Books, imitated by Christ. Marlow, and finished by Geo. Chapman, Lond. 1606, 4to. Reprinted, Lond. 1616, in a most diminutive size, being not two inches long, and scarcely one broad. NOSTRADAMUS, Cæsar, brother to the following, was born at Salon, 1555; died 1629.—He left a MS. giving an account of the most remarkable events in the History of Provence, from 1080 to 1494, in which he inserted the Lives of the Poets of that country. His nephew, Cæsar Nostradamus, Gentleman to the Duke of Guise, undertook to complete the Work, and carried the Account up to the Celtic Gauls: the impression was finished at Lyons, and published under the title of, Chronique de l'Histoire de Provence. 1614.

NOSTRADAMUS, John, son of the following, exercised with reputation
v the business of a Proctor in the Parliament of Provence.—He wrote, The Lives of the Ancient Provençal Poets, called Troubadours, printed at Lyons, 1575, 8vo.

NOSTRADAMUS, or Notre Dame, Michel, a celebrated Astrologer, and Physician to Henry II., Francis II., and Charles IX., Kings of France, was born at St. Remy, in Avignon, 1503; died 1566. He published,—A Treatise de Fardemens et de Senteurs. 1552.—A Book of Singular Receipts, pour Entretenir la Santé du Corps. 1556.—A Piece, des Confitures. 1557.—A French Translation of the Latin of Galen's Paraphrase, exhorting Menodotus to Study, especially to that of Physic. 1557.—An w Excellent Treatise; shewing such Perillous and Contagious Infirmities as shall ensue in 1559 and 1560: with the Synes, Causes, Accidents, and Curations for the Health of such as inhabit the 7, 8, and 9 Climate. The preceding are the only distinct editions of the books of fishing. The following are those connected with his other Poem,—De Piscibus libri v., De Venatione libri iv., Gr. Lat. interpr. Laur. Lippo. Ven. ap. Ald. 1517, 8vo. A very incorrect edition.—De Piscib., &c., Gr. Lat. Par. ap. Turneb. 1555, 4to. This is the best piece of typography which proceeded from the press of Turnebus, and its rarity and intrinsic value are equal to its elegance. De Piscib., &c. à Conr. Rittershusio, Gr. n et Lat. Lugd. Bat. 1597, 8vo. An excellent edition.—De Piscib. à Joan. Gottl. Schneidero, Gr. Lat. Argent. 1776, 8vo. This is probably the best edition of Oppian, though some suppose the following better deserves that title: De Piscib., &c. ad MSS. Codd. Emend. et Annotat. auxit, J. N. Bellin de Ballu, Gr. Lat. Argent. 1785, 4to., and 2 vols. 8vo.—The English Translations of the above Poems are,—Oppian's Halieutics, of the Nature of Fishes and Fishing of the Ancients; in five books. Translated from the Greek (into English verse), with an Account of Oppian's Life and Writings, and a Catalogue of his Fishes. Oxf. 1722, 8vo. This is a creditable performance. The Translators were Mr. Diaper and o Mr. Jones, both of Baliol College.—The first Book of Oppian's Cynogetics; or a Poem of Hunting. Translated into English verse; with a Dissertation, and Oppian's Life prefixed. Dedicated to Sir Robert Walpole, by John Mawer, A.M. Lond. 1736, 8vo.

OPSTRAET, John, an eminent Divine, was born at Beringham, a small town in the County of Leige, 1651; died 1720. His Works are numerous, but rather scarce. The chief are,—A Theological Dissertation on the Method of Administering the Sacrament of Penitence. Against Stayaërt.—Vera Doctrina de Baptismo Laborantium. 3 vols. 12mo. Against Stayaërt.—Theological Instructions for Young Divines.—The Good Shep- p herd: translated into French. 2 vols. 12mo. ORIENTIUS. See Orentius.

ORIGEN, an illustrious Father of the Church, surnamed Adamantius, from his indefatigable assiduity in labour, and his irresistible firmness under the sharpest persecutions, was born at Alexandria, in Egypt, about the year 185; died at Tyre, in 254. Though the Works of Origen make at present several considerable volumes, yet they are but an inconsiderable part of what he wrote; the numerous Commentaries, Scholia, and Homilies which he composed being now either lost, or only partly extant.—Contra Celsum, c Latine, per Christ. Personam. Rom. 1481, fol. Very scarce. Et à Dav. Hæschelio, Gr. et Lat. Aug. Vind. 1605, 4to. Contra Cels. et Philocalio, à Guil. Spensero, Gr. Lat. Cantabr. 1658 et 1677, 4to. The latter of these impressions is an inferior one.—Origen against Celsus, translated from the original into English, by James Bellamy, Gent. Lond. 8vo.—A Homilie of Mary Magdalene, declaring her fervent love and zele towards Christ; written by that famous Clerke, Origene. A Homilie of Abraham, how he offered up his sonne Isaac; written by Origene, newly translated. Lond. 1565, 16mo.—Philocalio, à Jo. Tarino, Gr. Lat. Par. 1618, 4to. —Commentaria, a P. Dan. Huetio, Gr. Lat. Roth. 1668, fol. This is a d good edition of what remains of the Commentaries of Origen; with a valuable Preface by the Editor.—Dialogus contra Marcionitas, à Jo. Rud. Wetsteinio, Gr. Lat. Bas. 1674, 4to.—De Oratione, à Libellus, Gr. Lat. Oxon. 1686, 12mo. Et à Guil. Reading, Gr. Lat. Lond. 1728, 4to. A good edition.—Philosophoumena, à Jo. Christ. Wolfio, Gr. Lat. Hamb. 1706, 8vo.—Hexapla, à Bern. de Montfaucon, Heb. Gr. et Lat. Par. 1713, 2 vols. fol. A very valuable work. Et à Car. Frid. Bahradt, Heb. Gr. et Lat. Lips. 1769, 2 vols. 8vo. All that could be gathered from the Works of the Ancients, of the celebrated Hexapla of Origen, are given in these editions. Father Montfaucon supposes the original Work must have e made 50 volumes.—OPERA. Opera Latine. Par. 1512, 1519, 4 tom. fol.—Opera, Lat. per Erasmum. Bas. 1536, 1545, 1571, 2 tom. fol.—Opera Latine, castigata per Gilb. Genebrardum. Par. 1574, 1604, 1619, 2 vols. fol.—Opera, à Car. de la Rue Monach. S. Mauri, Gr. et Lat. Par. 1733-39, 4 vols. fol. An edition executed with great accuracy and judgment. Though these four volumes do not complete the plan of the Editor, yet they contain the best, and indeed the only part of Origen's Works worth attention.—Opera omnia, ad editionem Parisiensem Caroli de la Rue Recusa, Gr. et Lat. à Franc. Oberthur. Wirceb. 1780, &c. 15 vols. 8vo. A neat edition, forming part of the Sanctorum Patrum Græcorum Opera
f Polemica, begun in 1777, by Oberthur.

ORPHEUS, the most celebrated of all the Grecks in the fabulous ages, is said to to have been a native of Thrace, and to have flourished before the Trojan War, or about 1260 years B. C. The Writings ascribed to Orpheus are generally allowed to be spurious, and it has even been questioned whether such a man ever existed. The Hymns or Invocations to the Gods, are now allowed by many, to be the production of Onomacritus, a Pythago- s rean.—Argonautica, Gr. Flor. ap. Junta, 1500, 4to. Editio princeps. This is one of the most elegant specimens of ancient Greek typography, and it is not only valued for its beauty, but also for its rarity, and the accuracy of the text. It is connected with Lycius.—Argonaut., &c., Gr. Ven. ap. Ald. 1517, 8vo. This edition contains, the Hero and Leander of Musæus, with a Latin version; and for the first time, the Treatise of Orphæus relating to Stones.—Argon., &c. Gr. Flor. ap. Juntæ, 1519, 8vo. Including the Work on Stones, the Hero and Leander of Musæus, and the Batrachomyomachia of Homer.—Argon. Gr. et Lat. Bas. ap. Cratander, 1523-29, 4to. This is a valuable and critical edition: the t Editor of it is unknown, but the Latin version is by Cribellus.—Argonautica. Hymni et de Lapidibus. Gr. Lat. curante A. C. Eschenbachio. Accedunt H. Stephani in omnia et J. Scaligeri, in Hymnos Notæ. Traj. ad Rh. 1689, 8vo. A rare and curious publication.—Argon., &c.; cum Not. Var. à J. M. Gesnero, Gr. et Lat. Lips. 1764, 8vo. An excellent edition, considered by many as the edit. optima of its Author.—Argon. Gr. à Schneidero. Hal. Sax. 1803, 8vo. An edition compiled with great judgment and taste.—Argon., &c., Gr. et Lat. recensuit God. Hermannus. Lips. 1805, 8vo. The Editor of this impression excels all preceding ones in critical acumen and learned research. He seems indeed to have u taken wonderful pains with his Author, and the Historical and Grammatical Treatises which the edition contains, render it valuable to the lover of critical Works.—De Terræ Motibus Catalecton, e Bibl. They were likewise printed in the original Gaelic, with a literal translation into English, by the late Robert M'Farlane, A.M.: together with a Dissertation on the Authenticity of the Poems by Sir John Sinclair, Bart., &c. Published under the sanction of the Highland Society of London. Lond. 1807, 8vo. New edition; to which is added, An Enquiry into the Genuineness of the Poems of Ossian; by the Rev. Alexander Stewart. Edinb. 1820, 24mo. 5s. There have been innumerable editions of this Work. In less than a year from its first appearance it was translated k into almost every language of Europe. With regard to the authenticity of these Poems, as a whole, there has been much discussion, and the question remains at present, in a great manner, sub judicio; but that such a person as Ossian existed, and the heroes he celebrates,—and that parts of his Poems are preserved as traditionary among the Highlands of Scotland, has been attested on the fullest and most indubitable evidence.

Bologna, printed by Balthesar Azoguidi, 1471, fol. Editio princeps. This is one of the most interesting z works of classical antiquity; and is rendered doubly valuable, from its exceeding scarcity, and also from being the first production of the Bologna press. —Opera, ex recens. Joan. Andr. Ep. Aleriens. Rom. ap. Sweyn. et Pannartz. 1471, 2 vols. fol. This is an uncommonly rare and valuable impression. The second volume is without date, which has given rise to various conjectures among bibliographers. The general, and most probable opinion, however is, that it was executed in the following year. This gives the chronological precedence to the Bologna edition, although the difference must be very trifling.—Opera. Ven. ap. Jac. Rubeus. 1474, fol. This is more beautiful, though less scarce than the two preceding impressions.—Opera.
a Without date, 2 vols. fol. Supposed to have been the work of Jenson, about 1475.—Opera. Mediol. ap. Zarot. 1477, fol.—Opera. Parm. ap. Corallus, 1477, 2 vols. fol This beautiful and estimable production is a reprint of the Roman and Venetian impressions of 1471, and 1474.—Opera. Bonon. ap. Azoguido, 1480, 2 vols. fol. These volumes are seldom found together.—Opera, à Barnab. Celsano. Vincent. ap. Lichtenstein, 1480, 2 vols. fol. A scarce and valuable edition.—Opera, à Bono Accursio. Ven. ap. Bernard. de Novaria, 1486, 2 vols. fol.—Opera ex recens. Boni Accursii. Ven. 1489, fol. Ven. 1498, fol.—Opera. Ven. ap. Ald. 1502, 3 vols. 12mo. The text of this edition is pure, and seems to b have been compiled chiefly by Aldus himself. Et ex recens. Andr. Naugerii. Ven. ap. Ald. 1515-16, 3 vols. 8vo. This is more valuable than the preceding, being carefully revised by Naugerius. Et ex recens. And. Naugerii et Honorati Fascitelli. Ven ap. Ald. 1533-34, 3 vols. 8vo. A reprint of the impression of 1516, but less esteemed. These Aldine editions are all rare and valuable. To obtain complete copies is very difficult.—Opera. Par. ap. Colin. 1527, 3 vols. 12mo. An excellent edition.—Opera. Lugd. ap. Gryph. 1539, et 1547, 3 vols. 12mo.—Opera, à Guido Morillonio. Ant. 1561, 3 vols. 16mo. An edition of considerable beauty and scarcity. It was reprinted in 1578-82, 3 vols.—Opera à Wechel. Franc. 1601, fol. This

PANZER, George Wolfgang Francis, an eminent Bibliographer, was born at Sulzbach in the Upper Palatinate, 1729; died at Nuremberg, 1805. The Publications of this learned and laborious Writer are,—Account of the most Ancient German Bibles, printed in the 15th century, which are in the library at Nuremberg. In German. 1777, 4to.—History of Bibles printed at Nuremberg from the invention of the Art. In German. Nuremb. 1778, 4to.—History of Early Printing at Nuremberg, in the year 1500. Nuremb. 1789, 4to. In German.—Annales Typographici, ab artis inventæ origine ad annum M. D., Post Maittairii, Denisii, aliorumque doctissimorum
b Virorum Curas in ordinem redacti, emendati, et aucti. Nuremb. 1793-1803, 11 vols. 4to. This is a Work of the very first importance to bibliographers, and presents the most extensive account yet published, of the productions of the 15th century, but it is notwithstanding far from being complete, and the arrangement of matter far from being convenient. It is rendered more complete, however, by another Work of his in German, entitled, Annals of Ancient German Literature; or, an Account of Books printed in Germany, from the invention of the Art to 1520. Vol. i. Nuremb. 1788, 4to. Vol. ii. Nuremb. 1806, 4to. The first of these volumes contains an Account of all German Works printed between 1462 and 1520. A Supplec ment of corrections and additions, was published in 1802. The second volume respects those works executed between 1521 and 1526.—Conspectus Monumentorum Typographicorum, seculi xv. ad ductum Annalium Typographicorum hujus seculi a se, editorum dispositus. Norimb. 1797, 4to.

PARACELSUS, Philippus Aurelius Theophrastus, a Physician and Chemist, of a strange and paradoxical genius, and one of those men who owed their popularity to the superstition and ignorance of the times, is supposed to have been born near Zurich, 1493; died in Saltsburg, 1541. To enumerate the immense number of German Treatises, (for he understood no other language), which have been published under his name, would be q bestowing a pains upon them which they certainly do not deserve. We shall, therefore, only notice those Works that have appeared under the name of English Translations from Paracelsus.—A Treatise of the Cure of the Frenche Poxe, with all other Diseases arising and growing thereof. Translated by J. Hester. Lond. 1590, 4to.—Experiments and Cures. Translated by J. Hester. Lond. 1596, 4to.—The first part of the Key of Philosophy. Translated by J. Hester. PERSIUS, Aulus Flaccus, one of the three great Latin Satirists, was born at Volterra, in Tuscany, A. D. 34; died in his 30th year. There are only six Satires of this Poet remaining, and they are remarkably obscure: this is partly the fault of the Poet, and partly owing to their allusions to persons, events, and customs, with which we are now unacquainted.—Satyræ. The greater part of the editions of Persius have been printed along j with Juvenal, and will be found under that Satirist. In the following list, therefore, the separate impressions of Persius only are noticed.—Sat. Without date, place, or name of printer, 4to. This appears to be the earliest text of the Poet separately printed. It is evidently a production of Ulric Han's press, but is considered as a different and subsequent one to that of the Juvenal by the same printer.—Sat. Without date, place, or name of printer, fol. A rude and rare impression, attributed to the press of Martin Flach, who printed at Strashourg, about 1475.—Sat. cum Annotationibus Joannis Britannici, &c. Milan, fol.—Sat. Ven. printed by Renaldus de Novimagio, 1482, fol.—Sat. Mediol. ap. Leon. Pachel et Uld. Scinzen, 1486, fol.

The preceding date Mr. Dibdin believes to be a spurious one; as it "seems to be (let us quote his own words,) "executed by different hands from those which worked the body of the text." He however gives us no other date in its place.—Satyr. Venice, printed by B. V. de Vitalibus, 1499, 4to. This was long considered as the first edition of Petronius. It is very rare; and according to Bur- n man, incorrect and imperfect. It appears to have been faithfully reprinted by Tanner, and edited by Buschius, at Leipsic, 1500, 4to.—Satyr. à Chalderio. Par. 1520, 4to. A scarce and estimable edition.—Satyr. à Joan. Sambuco. Antv. ap. Plant. 1565, 8vo. This is a valuable and rare edition, containing many important readings.—Satyr. à Dionys. Lebeo Batilio. Lugd. 1575, 8vo. Par. 1575, 12mo.—Satyr. cum Notis Doctor. Viror. Par. 1577, 8vo. et 1587, 12mo.—Satyr. à Jano Dousa. Lugd. Bat. 1585, 8vo. Et Par. 1585, 8vo. Annexed to the Satires of Sulpicius.—Satyr. à Joan. Woweren. Lugd. Bat. 1596, 1604, 8vo. et Amst. 1626, 24mo.—Satyr. cum Pithæorum, Dousæ et aliorum Notis. Par. 1601, 12mo. A good o edition. Annexed to the Catalecta Poetarum.—Satyr. à Melchior. Goldasto, Helenopol. (Francof.) 1610, 8vo. Lug. 1618, et Francof. 1621, 4to. A critical edition. The real Editor is supposed to be Erhardus, Goldastus being an assumed name.—Satyr. à Joan. Bourdelotio. Par. 1618, 1645, 1663, et 1677, 12mo. All these editions contain learned Notes and a useful Glossary; the two first are the most valuable.—Satyr. à P. Lotichio. Franc. 1629, 4to. A prolix and inconvenient edition.—Satyr. à Jos. Ant. Gonsalo de Salas. Franc. 1629, 4to. This contains a corrected text from the Editor's conjectures, and an excellent Commentary. —Satyr. cum Not. var. à Sim. Abbes Gabemma. Ultraj. 1654, 8vo.— p Satyr. à Rutgero Hermannide. Amst. 1663, 12mo.—Satyr. à Joan. Scheffero. Upsal. 1665, 8vo.—Satyr. à Thoma Reinsio. Lips. 1666, 8vo.—Satyr. cum Apologia Martini Statilii. Par. 1666, et Amst. 1670, 8vo.—Satyr. cum Dissert. varior. à Christ. Arnoldo. Norimb. 1667, 8vo. —Satyr. cum Not. var. et Mich. Hadrianidis. Amst. 1669, 8vo. A most beautiful and correct edition.—Satyr. cum Sulpiciæ Satyra, et Priaperiis, à Jo. Boschio. Amst. 1677, 24mo. Et cum Fragmento Fragurino. Amst. 1700, 24mo. Elegant impressions.—Satyr. cum Not. var. Amst. 1687, 8vo.—Satyr. Lond. 1693, 8vo. An excellent edition. Et cum fig. Lond. 1707, et 1711, 12mo.—Satyr. à Pet. Burmanno. Ultraj. 1709, 4to. q Dr. Harwood affirms this to be one of the best edited of the Dutch classics. "Burman," he adds "by his immense erudition and critical sagacity, hath so wonderfully illustrated this difficult writer, that it is almost impossible for the best scholar to read Petronius in any other edition." It was reprinted, Lips. 1731, 2 vols. 8vo. And again after Burman's death, by his son Casper. Amst. 1743, 4to. This last edition, although rather incorrect, is more esteemed than that of 1709, as it contains additional Notes, and Excerpta from various fresh MSS.—Satyr. cum Epicrisi et Scholiis Reinesii, et Notis Jo. Schefferi. Lips. 1766, 8vo. A good edition.—Satyr. ex recens. Burmanni, Notas Criticas, Historicas, et Glossarium addidit Anton. r Lips. 1781, 8vo. This is perhaps the best edition of Petronius yet published. The various readings of the most esteemed editions are here given; and the Notes, erudite and numerous, are printed under the text. It contains besides, a sensible Preface, a short review of editions, and a copious and excellent Index.—Satyr. et Fragmenta. Berol. 1785, 8vo. This is formed on the editions of Burman and Antonius, and was edited by the celebrated Count Revickzky.—Satyr. Bipont. 1790, 8vo A neat and useful impression.——OTHER WORKS.—Carmen de Luxu Romanorum. Lips. 1500, 4to. Printed separately from the Satires.—Fragmentum nuper Traguri repertum, à Martino Statilio. Patav. 1664, 8vo. Reprinted the s same year, in Paris.—Petronius integer, ex codice Alhæ Græcæ (Belgrado) nunc demum repertus, à Franc. Nodoto. Par. et Rotter. 1693, 8vo. Et Lat. Gall. Colon. (sed Paris,) 1694, 12mo. et 1709, 8vo. Colon. 1713, 2 vols. 12mo. Lips. 1731, 8vo. The authenticity of this Work is doubted by many.—De Bello Civili, cum duobus Ovidii Epistolis, et Pervigilio Veneris, Lat. et Gall. Amst. 1737, 4to.—Histoire Secrette de Neron, ou La Festin de Trimalcion, Lat. et Fr. trad. par M. L. Lavaur. Par. 1726, 8vo. This is the most indelicate of all his pieces.——English Translations. PHÆDRO, GEORGE.—Physical and Chemical Works. Lond. 1654, 12mo.

PHÆDRUS, an ancient Latin Author, was a native of Thrace, and at first a slave of Augustus, but afterwards freed by that Emperor. He is supposed to have died some time between the years 41 and 54 A. C. His five books of Fables, written in Iambic verse, are much valued for their wit and g good sense, expressed in pure and elegant language. It is remarkable that no writer of antiquity has made any mention of them;—and they lay buried in oblivion until 1595, when they were discovered in the Library of St. Remi, by Pithæus.——FAB.—Fabulæ vel Fabularum Æsopicarum, libri v. à Petro Pithæo. PHALARIS, a famous Tyrant of Agrigentum, in Sicily, who, having made himself master of that city, about 571 A. C., signalized himself by his cruelties, until about the year 561 before Christ, when the Agrigentines revolted, and put him to death. The Letters which are extant under this tyrant's name, occasioned the memorable controversy between Dr. Bentley and the Hon. R. Boyle, concerning their authenticity.——EPIST.—There are few points in bibliography more difficult than that of settling the exact dates of the several early impressions of Phalaris. In our arrangement we have followed Mr. Dibdin, whose opinion in these particulars certainly deq serves a preference.—Epistolæ, &c. Latine ab Aretino. Without the name of printer, 1470, 4to. Editio princeps. This curious and interesting volume contains several pieces besides the Epistles of Phalaris. It seems to have been executed by Gering, Crantz, and Friburger, the first Parisian printers.—Epist. Latinè. Brescia, printed by Ferandus, without date, 4to. "Liber longe rarissimus," says Morelli, "ac vel præcipuis rei Bibliographicæ Scriptoribus prorsus ignotus."—Epist. Trevisa, 1471, 4to.—Epistolæ, Latinè. Printed by J. de Reno, 1475, 4to. This is an impression of no common occurence: the type is a small neat Roman character.—Epist. Latinè. Without place, date, or name of printer, 4to. The date of this edition apr pears not to be earlier than 1474; although it is without signatures and catchwords.—Epist. Lat. Without date, place, or name of printer, 4to. It is doubtful whether this be not, in reality, the first impression of the Latin version of Phalaris. The type resembles that of Sixtus Reusinger, or Reissinger, who printed at Naples between the years 1470 and 1480.—Epist. Latinè. Oxon. 1485, 8vo. Very scarce.—Epist. Latinè. Without date, place, or name of printer, 4to. This is probably about the date of 1490; and is undoubtedly from the press of Stephen Planck, whose typographical neatness is well known.—Phalaris, Apollonius, Brutus, Epistolæ, Græce. Ven. 1498, 4to. The first Greek impression of these Epistles; and a volume of s extreme rarity. It contains also the Greek text of Æsop.—Epist. à Thoma Naogeorgio, Gr. et Lat. Bas. 1518, 1558, et 1597, 8vo.—Epist. et aliorum Epistolæ, Gr. et Lat. Tornæsius. 1612, 12mo.—Epist. à Carolo Boyle, Gr. et Lat. Oxon. 1695, et 1718, 8vo.—Epist. cum Notis Boyle et Comment. Joan. à Lennep, à Lud. Casp. Valkenario, Gr. et Lat. Groning. 1777, 4to. Gotting. 1799, 3 vols. 8vo.——OPERA.—Pindari Opera, Callimachus, Dionysius, Lycophron, Græce. Ven. ap. Ald. 1513, d 8vo. Editio Princeps, of the Works of Pindar, Dionysius' De Situ Orbis, and of the Alexandria of Lycophron: the Hymns of Callimachus had previously appeared. This is a beautiful volume, and is printed with a larger type than that usually employed by Aldus. The Preface to it is extremely interesting.—Opera, Gr. cum Scholiis Callieggi. Rome, 1515, 4to. First edition with the Scholia, and the first Greek book printed at Rome. From this and the Aldine edition, a great many of the subsequent impressions of Pindar have been formed.—Opera, Gr. a Ceporino. Bas. 1526, 1556, 8vo. These are excellent and rare editions. The first is the most correct.—Opera, Gr. cum Scholiis. Franc. ap. Burbachius, e 1542, 4to. An indifferent edition.—Opera, Gr. sine Scholiis. Par. ap. Morel. 1558, 4to. A beautiful edition.—Opera, Gr. Lat. per Hen. Stephanum. Par. 1560, 1566, 1586, 2 vols. 8vo. These editions contain the Poems of Pindar, with those of Alcæus, Sappho, Stesichorus, Ibycus, Anacreon, Bacchylides, Simonides and Alcmanes. That of 1560 is the most correct.—Opera, Gr. et Lat. Ant. ap. Plant. 1567, 12mo. An accurate impression; containing all the other Greek Lyrics.—Op. Gr. Lug. Bat. ap. Plant. 1590, 8vo.—Op. Gr. et Lat. Lug. 1598, 12mo. —Op. Gr. et Lat. ab Emilio Porto. Comelin. 1598, 8vo.—Op. Gr. et Lat. ap. Paul. Stephen. 1599, 1600, 1612, 1626, 8vo.—Op. ab Erasmo f Schmidio, Gr. et Lat. cum Schol. Witteb. 1616, 4to. This is allowed to be a more erudite edition than any of the preceding.—Op. a Joan. Benedicto, Gr. et Lat. Salmur. 1620, 4to. A correct and valuable work. —Op. Gr. Lat. per Ric. West et Rob. Welsted. Oxon. 1697, fol. A magnificent work, presenting a splendid monument of classical research and typographical beauty.—Op. Gr. et Lat. Glasg. ap. Foulis, 1744, 1754, 1770, 3 vols. 12mo. The first of these editions is said to be one of the most accurate of the Glasgow Classics. The edition of 1770 is not so correct.—Op. Gr. et Lat. Lond. 1755, 8vo. A neat and accurate edition, edited and printed by Bowyer.—Op. cum Lectionum Varietate, a g Christ. Gottl. Heyne, Gr. et Lat. Gotting. 1773-4, 2 vols. 4to. This is an edition of distinguished merit, and was highly treasured by the learned. The great judgment displayed in the choice of the text and its punctuation, the various readings, and the elucidation which it threw upon the strains of Pindar, rendered it a performance far exceeding all previous publications. Great, however, as its merits are, it was far surpassed by a 2d edition by the same learned Professor (Heyne), Gotting. 1798, 3 vols. 8vo., which is unquestionably the edit. opt. of Pindar, and, in all likelihood, will remain so for some time.—Op. Gr. et Lat. Oxon. 1807, 2 vols. 8vo. A beautiful reprint of Heyne's edition, with Annotations, &c.—Pindari h Carmina, juxta exemplar Heynianum. Quibus accesserunt Notæ Heynianæ; Paraphrasis Benedictina; et Lexicon Pindaricum ex integro Dammii opere etymologico excerptum, et justa serie dispositum. Digessit et edidit Henricus Huntingford, LL. B. Lond. 1814, 8vo.——Eng. Trans. The Translations from Pindar are,—The second Olympique and first Nemean Ode of Pindar paraphrased, by Abm. Cowley; in his Poems. Lond. 1656, fol. And frequently reprinted in his Works.—Part of Pindar's first Pythian Ode, paraphrased by Walter Harte, in his Poems. s PLANTIN, Christopher, a celebrated Printer at Antwerp, Leyden, and Paris, was born near Tours, in 1514; died 1589. Plantin is always considered as a great benefactor to literature. The liberality and magnificence with which he conducted his profession, inspired a spirit of rivalship into it; and the many learned men whom he retained in his service, rendered the productions of his presses as accurate as beautiful. We will not attempt an enumeration of them. For this we refer to a Work, entitled, Index Librorum, qui ex Typographia Plantiniana prodierunt. Ant. 1615, 8vo.

PLANUDES, Maximus, a Greek Monk of Constantinople, who lived at the end of the 13th, and the beginning of the 14th century. He is the PLINIUS, Secundus Caius, called the Elder, was one of the most learned of the ancient Roman Writers, and is supposed to have been born at Verona, in the reign of Tiberius Cæsar, about the year of Christ 23. His curiosity leading him to Mount Vesuvius, in the year 79, when there was a terrible eruption, he was suffocated by some gross and noxious vapour. From this event, Pliny has been termed the Mar- s tyr of Nature.——HIST. NAT.—Historia Naturalis. Venice, printed by John de Spira, 1469, fol. Editio princeps. This is perhaps one of the most interesting and valuable publications of the 15th century. It is rendered particularly so by the magnificence of its execution, the few copies of it only that were struck off, and the interest excited by the printer of it, it being the second of the three only Works which are known to have issued from the press of John de Spira.—Hist. Nat. Rome, printed by Sweynheym and Pannartz, 1470, fol. Editio secunda. This is also an extremely scarce and valuable edition. It was edited by the Bishop of Aleria.—Hist. Nat. Venice, printed by Jenson, 1472, fol. One of the most t beautiful and splendid impressions of Pliny yet produced, and probably the masterpiece of the celebrated printer who executed it. It is, however, of no great rarity.—Hist. Nat. Rome, printed by Sweynham and Pannartz, 1473, fol. This is neither so beautiful nor so accurate as the edition of 1470, by the same printers, on which it is founded.—Hist. Nat. a Phil. Beroaldo. Parmæ, ap. Steph. Corallus, 1476, fol. This edition is formed on the basis of Jenson's, but is corrected in many places.—Hist. Nat. a Heron. Bononio. Tarvis, ap. Mich. Manzol. Parmens, 1479, fol. —Hist. Nat. ab Andr. Aicardo. Parma, printed by Andrea Portilia, 1480 and 1481, fol. These Parma editions are valuable.—Hist. Nat. ex edit. u Beroaldi. Ven. ap. Rainaldus de Novomagio, 1483, fol. Ven. ap. Martinus Saracenus, 1487, fol. Ven. ap. Thomas de Blavis de Alexandria, 1491, fol. Et ap. Barth. Zanis de Portesio, 1496, fol.—Hist. Nat. Brix. ap. Angelus et Jacobus fratres Britannici, 1496, fol.—Hist. Nat. cum Castigationibus Herm. Barbari. Venet. ap. Ber. Benal. 1497-98. Et Ven. ap. Jo. Alvisius de Varisio, 1499, fol.—Hist. Nat. ab Alex. Benedicto. Ven. 1507, fol. This edition was reprinted in 1510, 8vo, and 1513 and 1516, fol.—Hist. Nat. Par. 1511, et 1514, fol.—Hist. Nat. a Jo. Bapt. Imario, cum Indice Jo. Camertis. Hagen. 1518, fol. —Hist. Nat. ex edit. Herm. Barbari. Ven. 1519, fol.—Hist. Nat. a v Joanne Cesario. Colon. 1524, fol.—Hist. Nat. ex Recens. Herm. Barbari et Alexan. Benedicti. Ven. 1525, fol.—Hist. Nat. a Desid. Erasmo. Bas. 1525, fol.—Hist. Nat. a Bellocirio (Danesio.) Par. 1532, fol. A very beautiful and curious edition.—Hist. Nat. a Sigis. Gelenio. Bas. 1535, fol. The offices of Froben, Hervagius, Episcopius, and others at Basil, produced many editions of Pliny, but this is allowed to be the most correct.—Hist. Nat. Ven. ap. Ald. 1536, &c. 4 vols. 8vo. These volumes are seldom found together.—Hist. Nat. Par. 1543, fol.—Hist. Nat. Par. 1543, max. fol. This magnificent edition is different from the preceding.—Hist. Nat. cum vetustissimis MSS. collati, et cum Casti- w gationibus Sigis. Gelenii. Lugd. 1548, fol.—Hist. Nat. Lyons, 1553, A very beautiful edition.—Hist. Nat. ex edit. Sigis. Gelenii, a Paulo Minutio. Ven. ap. Ald. 1559, fol. Elegantly printed in Italics.—Hist. Nat. ab Andr. Morguæsio. Lugd. 1560-61, 4 vols. 16mo. scarce.—Hist. Nat. a Nicol. Victorio. Lugd. ap. Ant. Vincent. 1561, fol. Some copies are found with the imprint Jo. Frelbonius, 1563, but the edition is the same.—Hist. Nat. ex var. Castigationibus in unum collectis. Franc. 1582, fol. A valuable edition, adorned with cuts. It was reprinted in the same year at Geneva and Leyden.—Hist. Nat. a Jacobo Dalecampio. Lug. 1587, et 1606, fol. Good editions.—Hist. Nat. a Ferd. Pintiano. x Genev. 1593, fol.—Hist. Nat. cum Not. var. et Jac. Dalechampii. Franc. 1608, 2 vols. 8vo. An accurate impression.—Hist. Nat. a Crispino. Genev. 1631, fol. A most excellent edition.—Hist. Nat. a Jo. de Laet. Lugd. Bat. ap. Elzev. 1635, 3 vols. 12mo. A beautiful edition.—Hist. Nat. cum Not. var. et J. F. Gronovii. Lugd. Bat. 3 vols. 8vo. This impression is both scarce and valuable. It comprehends the Commentaries of all preceding Editors, besides the Notes of Gronovius.—Hist. Nat. a Joan. Harduino. Par. 1685, 5 vols. 4to. Par. 1723, 3 vols. fol. Paris (Basil,) 1741, 3 vols. fol. Of these editions by the celebrated Father Hardouin, the first was written in Usum Delphini, and is preferable to all y preceding ones: but the second, of 1723, has eclipsed it; and is by far the more copious, splendid, and critical performance. The third is greatly inferior to both, in paper and typographical execution.—Hist. Nat. a Jo. Petro Millero. Berol. 1776, 5 vols. 8vo.—Hist. Nat. cum Gallica Versione. Par. 1771-82, 12 vols. 4to. The text of this edition is enriched with many copious and learned Annotations, and the translation is in general well and faithfully executed.—Hist. Nat. cura Franzii. Lips. 1776-91, 10 vols. 8vo. An excellent and critical edition, containing many emendations of the text, and judicious notes.—Hist. Nat. a Gabr. Brotier. Par. ap. Barbou, 1779, 6 vols. 12mo. This is a beautiful and cor- z rect impression, now very scarce.—Hist. Nat. Bipont. 1783, 6 vols. 8vo. An elegant and popular edition, from the text of Hardouin.——The Translations from Pliny are;—Ital.—Hist. Nat. Ital. Tradotto per Cristoforo Landino. Ven. 1476, fol. A magnificent Work.—Hist. Nat. Ven. 1501, fol. Ven. 1534, 1543, 4to.—Hist. Nat. Ital. per Ludovico Domenichi. Ven. 1561 et 1603, 4to.——Gall.—Hist. Nat. Gall. par Antoine du Pinet. Lyon. 1584, 2 tom. fol. There is also a French version, prefixed to the edition above noticed, of 1771-82.——Angl.—Plinie's Natural Historie of the World, translated into English by Philemon Holland. Lond. 1601, and 1634, 2 vols. generally bound in one, a fol. This is a most laborious work, and the only English Translation of this Classic.——Belg.—Hist. Nat. Arnh. 1600, 4to. Amst. 1657, 1662, 8vo.——Germ.—Hist. Nat. Germ. übersetzt von Gottfried Grosze. Franc. 1781-8, 12 tom. 8vo.

PLINIUS, Cæcilius Secundus Caius, Nephew of the preceding, a man of talents and various accomplishments, was born at Novocomum, a Town upon the Lake Larius, A. D. 62; is supposed to have died about A. D. 116.——EPISTOLÆ.—Epist. Without name of printer or place, 1471, 4to. Editio princeps. This is a very beautiful and uncommon Work. The Editor was Ludovicus Carbo; and as he was corrector of b the press to Valdarfer in Venice, it is very probable that it issued from that printer's office.—Epist. Sine anno, loco, et typographo, sed Romæ, Joan Schurener de Bopardia. fol. An extremely rare edition, which seems to have been printed about the year 1474.—Epist. a Juniano Majo. Neapol. 1476, 4to. A very elegant impression, executed by Moravus. —Epist. Mediol. ap. Phil. de Lavagnia, 1478, fol.—Epist. Tarvis ap. Joan. Vercellio, 1483, 4to.—Epist. Rome, printed by Silber, 1490, 4to. —Epist. Without place, name of printer, or date, but probably later than 1490, 4to. This is the edition that was formerly celebrated as being the first book printed in England, being given out in some catalogue as print- c ed at Oxford by Frederick Corsellis, in 1469; but this is now known to have been an imposition.—Epist. a Joan. Jucundo et Phil. Beroaldo. Bonon. ap. Bened. Hector, 1498, 4to.—Epist. a Joan. Sichardo. Bas. 1542, 8vo.—Epist. ab August. Buchnero. Franc. 1644, 12mo.—Epist. cum Not. var. a Joan. Veenhusio. Lugd. Bat. 1669, 8vo. This is a very valuable edition. The elegance of the typography, the accuracy of the text, and the perspicuity of the notes, render it indeed a truly enviable Work.—Epist. a Jac. Thomasio. Lips. 1675, 8vo. An excellent edition. It was reprinted Hal. Sax. 1686, 8vo. and Lips. 1695, 8vo.—Epist. a Christ. Cellario. Lips. 1693, et 1700, 12mo. Good editions.—Epist. a d Mich. Maittaire. Lond. 1722, 12mo.—Epist. a Paulo Dan. Longolio. Amst. 1734, 4to. A very elaborate edition, compiled with great accuracy and judgment. Besides the emendations of Cortius and Longolius, it exhibits the best Notes of the former Commentators on Pliny.—Epist. Lond. 1790, 8vo. This is a most elegant and accurate edition. It was edited by the Rev. Henry Homer, whose name, however, is not in the title page.—Epist. noviss. et acc. ad optim. edit. recogn. Manheim, 1792, 8vo.—Lettres de Pline le jeune. Without name of printer, place, or date, 4to. This was supposed, by Fabricius and Ernesti, to have been executed in Germany, at the dawn of the typographic art: but this supposition has been refuted; for, from the general i appearance of the volume, its date seems to be little earlier than 1480.—Epist. Paneg. et de Viris Illustribus. Supposed to have been printed by Anthony Moretus. Venice, without date, 4to.—Epist. et Paneg. a Jo. Mar. Cataneo. Mediol. 1506, fol.—Epist. et Paneg. cum Suetonio de claris Grammaticis, et Joan. Jucundo. Venet. ap. Ald. 1508, et 1518, 8vo. These are the only Aldine editions of Pliny, though some have mentioned one of 1504. The edition of 1508 is curious, as being the first work in which the partnership of Aldus with his father-in-law, Asulanus, is announced. The edition of 1518 is merely a re-impression of the first. —Epist. et Paneg. a Joan. Franc. Zeffo. Flor. ap. Junt. 1515, 8vo.— j Epist. et Paneg. a Beato Rhenano. Bas. 1521, 4to.—Epist. et Paneg. An accurate translation, accompanied with judicious notes.——Opera.—Opera, Gr. Lat. ab Henrico Stephano. Par. 1572, 13 tom. 8vo. The first edition of the entire Works of Plutarch. The Latin version is by Cruserius and others. Although this edition abounds with many errors and corruptions, yet the labours of Stephens, considering the imperfect state of the materials which he employed, are not certainly to be despised. —Opera, Gr. Lat. cum Gulielmi Xylandri et doctorum virorum Notis, et f Libellis variantium Lectionum ex MSS. Codd. diligenter collectarum, et Indicibus accuratis. Franc. 1599, 2 tom. fol.—Opera, Gr. Franc. 1605, fol. An accurate edition.—Opera, Gr. et Lat. a Xylandro, &c. Franc. 1620, 2 vols. fol. Ejusdem. Par. 1624, fol. The first of these editions contains the version and notes of Mausacus, and the remarks of various learned men. The different readings are placed at the end of each volume. The second edition of 1624 is a magnificent re-impression of the Frankfort one; containing, in addition, Rualdus's Life of Plutarch, with his annotations.—Opera, cum Not. var. a Joan. Jac. Reiske, Gr. et Lat. Lips. 1774-82, 12 vols. 8vo. Of this elaborate edition and its editor, the Edinburgh Review remarks: "Reiske is one of the latest editors of Plu- g tarch; his edition, however, disappointed the expectations of those who were not acquainted with his situation and character. The 'res angusta domi,' the irritability of his temper, and the unsettledness of his disposition, made him constantly dependant on the booksellers; and he was therefore more anxious to do much, than to do well."—Opera, cum Not. var. curavit J. G. Hutten, Gr. et Lat. Tubing. 1791-1800, 13 vols. 8vo. The text of this edition is formed on the basis of the Frankfort ones, with occasional emendations, &c.—Opera Moralia, i. e. Opera, exceptis vitis reliqua, Græca emendavit, notationem emendationum, et La- h tinam Xylandri interpretationem castigatam subjunxit, animadversiones explicandis rebus ac verbis; item indices copiosos adjecit Dan. Wyttenbach. Oxon. 1795, &c. 11 vols. 8vo. et 5 vols. 4to. We have placed this invaluable edition under the Opera, although it does not appear that its celebrated editor has completed his plan. In the year 1772, Wyttenbach first published a specimen of his projected edition of the entire Works of Plutarch; and this was succeeded by the present admirable edition of the Morals, which is replete with valuable and curious information, and on which he appears to have bestowed immense labour. The text is collated from a great number of MSS. besides the previous editions of Plu- i tarch. The Latin version is an improvement of Xylander's. With regard to the typographical execution of the volumes, the octavo copies have rather a meagre appearance, but the quarto impressions are very elegant. —Opere, da Giovanni Tarchagnota. This is an ancient edition, and seems to have been printed about the year 1470, by Vindelin de Spira. Et Bas. 1488, 4to. Antv. 1541, 12mo. Cracov. 1592, 12mo. This work is merely a collection of jocose tales; containing, however, anecdotes of several eminent persons who flourished during the 14th and 15th centuries.—Istoria Fiorentina: trad. u di lingua Latina in lingua Toscana da Jacope suo figliuolo. Ven. ap. Jac. Rubeo, 1476, fol. This appears to be the earliest Italian version of Poggio's History of Florence. It was translated by his Son. There is another edition corretta per M. Francesco Serdonati. Fir. 1598. 4to. The History itself is divided into eight Books, comprehending the events in which the Florentines were concerned, from 1350 to the peace of Naples in 1455, and the original was published by Recanati, and republished in the collection of Grævius and Muratori.—De Nobilitate, Liber. Ant. ap. Ger. Leeu, 1489, 4to.—His Works were published together at Basil, 1538, fol., which is reckoned the most complete edition; and con- v tains, besides the Works noticed above, A Dialogue on Avarice.
